

Dr. Nasim Uddin is the president of the Global Automotive Management Council (GAMC). In his current position he oversees and directs corporate affairs, directs and supports OEMs/suppliers collaborative initiatives from emissions, vehicle engineering to advanced propulsion. Dr. Uddin chairs the planning and technical committees related to the organization of management briefings, technical conferences, expositions, and publications. He also edits and publishes several automotive and technological magazines and journals. Prior to this position Dr. Uddin held engineering and management positions at Photon Sources, General Motors, Thyssen Steel Group, and Automotive Technology Group.